N26 Bank GmbH.

- Industry. Financial services
- Headquarters. Klosterstraße 62, 10179, Berlin, Germany
- Area served. Europe, United States
- Services. Direct bank
- Owner. N26 GmbH
- Website. https://n26.com/en-de

N26 (known as Number 26 until July 2016) is a German neobank headquartered in Berlin, Germany.

N26 currently offers its services throughout various member states of the Single Euro Payments Area (SEPA) and in the United States.[1]

Its operations in the United Kingdom have been suspended since April 2020 due to the uncertainties caused by Brexit.[2]

1.1 History

The company was founded as a financial technology startup in 2013 by Valentin Stalf and Maximilian Tayenthal.[3]

The name is derived from the 26-sided Rubik's Cube.[4]

In Apr 2015, N26 received €10 million in a series A round by Valar Ventures.[5]

Valar Ventures was co-founded by Peter Thiel, PayPal's co-founder.

Initially, Number 26 started operations without holding a banking license; instead, it was merely an interface while the back end was provided by Wirecard.

In Jul 2016, it re-branded as N26 Bank, having received its own banking license from BaFin.[6]

In Jun 2016 N26 notified several customers that their accounts were going to be terminated.

The company cited as main reasons that some customers were making too many ATM withdrawals, while others were suspected of money laundering.[7]

In Nov 2016, customers were asked to transfer their accounts to N26 Bank's infrastructure.

As a result, they would have to get a new account IBAN number, while the previous accounts held by Wirecard would be terminated.

During the transfer of its customer base to its own banking infrastructure, N26 customers took to social media to report various problems.[8]

In Dec 2016, N26 announced that its basic current account would become available to 17 Eurozone countries.

In Mar 2018, N26 raised $160 million in a series C round by Chinese internet giant Tencent Holdings and Allianz X (Allianz).

On the same date, N26 claimed a customer base of 850,000, with the goal of having 5,000,000 customers by 2020.

In Jan 2019, N26 raised an additional $300 million in a series D round led by Insight Venture Partners with Singapore's sovereign wealth fund GIC and a few existing investors also participating at a valuation of $2.7 billion.

With its new valuation of $2.7 billion, N26 overtook Revolut as the most valuable mobile bank in Europe.[9][10]

On 11 Jul 2019, N26 soft launched in the United States, initially allowing customers to sign up for a waiting list.

Due to differences in the U.S. market (particularly in regards to regulatory schemes for financial providers), N26 partnered with Axos Bank to serve as the provider of its services, insured under FDIC.

Unlike in Europe, where they are provided by MasterCard, N26 uses Visa cards for U.S. customers.[11]

The following week, the company extended its series D round with an additional $170 million investment, valuing the company at $3.5 billion.[12]

In May 2020, the company announced the extension of its recent Series D round with an additional $100M raised at the same valuation.[13]

On Feb 11, 2020, N26 announced that it will cease doing business in the United Kingdom and close all accounts effective Apr 15, due to the UK withdrawal from the European Union.

The company cited that European financial institutions can no longer operate in the region without applying for a banking license in the UK (rather than being allowed to operate under its EU license), as well as "the timings and framework outlined in the EU Withdrawal Agreement".[14][15]

In Sep 2020, N26 announced the appointment of former Dropbox executive Adrienne Gormley as the company's chief operating officer, replacing Martin Schilling who parted with the company in March.[16]

1.2 Product overview

N26 MasterCard.

N26 provides a free basic current account and a Debit MasterCard card to all its customers, as well as a Maestro card for their customers in certain markets.

Additionally, customers can request overdraft and investment products. N26 also offers premium accounts (N26 You and N26 Metal) which offer additional features for a monthly fee.

The account opening process can be completed via a video chat with N26's identity verification partner, IDnow.

Only holders of certain passports and ID cards can verify their identity online; others will have to visit a German post office if it is supported by Postident.

1.2.1 Availability

N26 offers its services in 22 European countries, plus the United States.[17]

In Austria, Germany and the Netherlands customers can additionally request a Maestro card.

N26 has closed its business in the UK and all bank accounts are closed.

Some parts of the website and customer service are provided in English, German, French, Italian and Spanish regardless of the customer's residency.[18]

1.2.2 Mobile payments

N26 customers in several of its markets can use their smartphone for in-store purchases.

N26 supports Google Pay in France, Belgium, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Slovakia, and Spain, while it supports Apple Pay in Austria, Belgium, Germany, The Netherlands, Greece, Finland, France, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Slovenia and Spain.

Additional countries are added as both Google Pay and Apple Pay gradually expand throughout N26's markets.

1.2.3 Fees

N26 has a basic account with no monthly fee and charges no fees for basic banking transactions or credit card payments in foreign currencies.

In the Eurozone (except Austria and Italy) ATM withdrawals are limited to 5 per month for primary account holders and 3 per month for others.

N26 charges a €2 fee for any additional withdrawal.

In the UK, ATM withdrawals were unlimited.[19]

ATM withdrawals in foreign currencies are also subject to a 1.70% fee for basic account and are free for N26 You and Metal account holders.

German customers can also withdraw and deposit money at retail locations.

While there is no fee for withdrawals up to €999, free deposits are limited to €100 and additional amounts are subject to a 1.5% fee.

1.2.4 Security

Customers can lock and unlock their MasterCard through the mobile app without having to contact N26 support.

They can also enable and disable it for usage abroad or online usage and modify the daily limits for cash withdrawals and card payments.

1.2.5 Mobile transfers

The N26 app can scan the users' contacts in their smartphone and identify other N26 account holders.

Using a service called Moneybeam a N26 customer can send funds to these contacts without having to fill in their IBAN.

Moneybeam transfers are executed instantaneously.

1.3 Security incidents

In Dec 2016, Vincent Haupert, a research fellow in computer science from the University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, demonstrated how he could take advantage of security vulnerabilities in order to get access to N26 users' accounts.[20]

Haupert had already notified N26 of the vulnerabilities back in Sep 2016.[21]

N26 acknowledged the issues and claimed that they had been fixed before they became public, adding that no user account had actually been compromised.

In Mar 2019, German media reported that customers who had their account credentials stolen found it difficult to contact the bank and resolve the situation.

Customer advocates reported that there was a growing number of complaints from phishing victims who were unable to access their accounts and found it difficult to contact the bank.

In a widely reported case N26 took more than 2 weeks to restore access for a customer who had €80,000 stolen from their account.

The reports raised the question if the rapid growth of the bank had left it ill-equipped to deal with the increasing number of support cases.[22][23][24] □
